Introduction

Although related to the same tradition of cartomantic divination, the Afro Goddess Tarot Arcanas and the Afro Goddess Lenormand Oracle offer two different, but equally effective reading systems. They are like two pieces of the same puzzle; the decks each illuminate very different aspects for the reader. What's the difference? Think of it like a movie: the cards of the tarot would equate to the individual scenes within the movie. The cards of the oracle would represent the characters, their traits, and the movie's plot as a whole. So, when put together, you'll be able to see all angles of the situation. The tarot will show you all the energies and feelings; while the oracle will show you what's true and tangible within them.

Quite often, readers will pull a few oracle cards to get a solid message, and then illuminate that message by means of the tarot. Or vice versa, with a full tarot reading and a few oracle cards to go along with them. It's all up to the reader. But let's spend some time examining how to utilize the magic of the Afro Goddess Lenormand Oracle by itself. Alone, the wisdom of the oracle is a true enlightenment of predictive and solid truth. It shows you what is. But first, you must understand the language of the Lenormand deck. It speaks, and much clearer than you think!

The Language of the Lenormand Oracle

To read this oracle deck by itself, you can use the traditional Lenormand system of meanings and method of reading. To interpret the cards, you rely on your intuition and main ideas of the cards to build a message like a sentence. Here's a crash course on a few of the main parts of speech.

Noun/Pronoun: subjects or focus

Adjective: describes the noun/pronoun

Verb: action/state of being or doing

Adverb: describes the action

Take note that as the cards shift positions, the meanings do as well. For example, as a noun, the Tree card can represent an elder person; but as a verb card the Tree might represent stability and grounding. The placement of the cards is very important. A great predictive spread here is:

Noun Verb Adverb

Here's an example: Should you pull the Ring as the subject, the Anchor as the verb, and the Stork as the adverb, that reading would show that a commitment (Ring) of stability (Anchor) will bring a transforming new cycle (Stork). The cards in different positions of the reading would yield completely different meanings.

If you had received the Anchor as the noun, the Stork as the verb, and the Ring as the adverb; the what is beyond that choice will take you to your next destination.

If it's in LOVE, someone within the union has multiple partners and is not committed to one person. This card can also arise when there are general doubts and thoughts about leaving a relationship. Make a decision you feel is best for you, and trust that your future is bright.

If it's in CAREER, you may have multiple job opportunities, increased work responsibilities, or even multiple jobs in general. It's okay though, just keep moving and trying your best. You can't get to your destiny by standing still.

HEALTH: the circulatory system

23 ♦ The Mice

23 Days ♦ 23 Months ♦ 23 Years

Mice are terrible menaces and masters of dis-ease. When you're not looking, they can quickly destroy, steal and infect everything for their own benefit and your harm. We all know some mice. They can be a thief, liar or master manipulator. It can also point to deterioration of some sort. But understand, you know the root of this loss, and you can rid yourself of this infestation should you choose to and heal or save what you can.

The Mice in your life can also be the things that gnaw away at your confidence or your peace of mind. They keep you up at night with worry, sadness, anxiety and despair. These thoughts are an infection of stress that can “multiply like rats” and are hard to rid yourself of. But you can exterminate these pesky Mice from your life. All it takes is a little courage, acknowledgement and a plan.

If it's in LOVE, you may be in an unhealthy relationship. There may be instabilities that are festering below the surface. You may also be losing a union; for sometimes the damage is already done.

If it's in CAREER, you may be hustling about in a stressful work situation or at a purely exhausting job. This card can also indicate job loss. Think about it though, is this truly a healthy work environment for you anyway? Heal from the situation and move on.

HEALTH: undetected general issues, or progressive conditions like anxiety, ulcers or exhaustion

24 ♦ The Heart

24 Days ♦ 24 Months ♦ 24 Years

There is a theory that the visual shape we use to represent the heart is not actually one heart, but two; each offering their passionate half to join together in a union of selfless love. “Love you to the moon and back,” you say. For that requires a love with the ultimate commitment. With every beat of your heart's existence, you both individually vow to “pump” passionate caring into your other half. In all relationship forms, love is necessary. For those whom we truly love (partners, parents, siblings, children, friends, etc.) are the true treasures of this existence. The Heart card indicates that there is compassionate caring as well as strength within this relationship or situation.

If it's in LOVE, you are enjoying the experience of a loving relationship. This can represent falling in new love or romancing an old love. Enjoy this bliss.

If it's in CAREER, you love what you do and are highly fulfilled by it. There is harmony within your work environment, and quite possibly this card can sometimes even illuminate an office romance.

HEALTH: anything involving the heart

25 ♦ The Ring

25 Days ♦ 25 Months ♦ 25 Years

The Ring card is a symbol of contracts and commitments. The shape of a ring is circular, or round, having no beginning and no end. It is binding and continuous. When a woman is given a ring at proposal, that symbol of circular continuation is presented with the spiritual contract of love and commitment. This card is all about those binding commitments, but of all sorts, not just romance and marriage. The Ring card could also allude to business contracts, mortgages and agreements between civil parties, etc. So, know a strong connection is here in this matter, and it's looking very good.

The Ring card can also represent cyclical patterns, jewelry and predictable moments.

If it's in LOVE, this is a committed relationship that may be leading to a proposal or marriage. If you are single, a new relationship is coming for you.

If it's in CAREER, the Ring illuminates contracts and business deals. Sometimes, it's the ties that bind us that truly build up our worth as the one who is precious.

HEALTH: an annual checkup, the lymphatic system

26 ♦ The Book

26 Days ♦ 26 Months ♦ 26 Years

Knowledge is power. The Book card represents knowledge, education, wisdom and hidden secrets. There are so many things about this existence to be discovered. Those who have come before us were so gracious to transcribe their teachings in manuscript form. So, it is our duty to research our questions and build our wealth of knowledge on a continuous basis. The Book card shows information for you that you need to research. It could be anything from a formal education to a secret within your relationship. Either way, it's time to delve into the unknown and study the facts of the matter.

If it's in LOVE, something within your relationship could be hidden, or you could be participating in a secret relationship all together. If you are single, quite possibly you may have a secret admirer.

If it's in CAREER, you may need to learn some extra skills for your job. Training is vital to success. So, learn all you can, and then show up at the front of the class.

HEALTH: brain, memory, or medical tests to come

27 ♦ The Letter

27 Days ♦ 27 Months ♦ 27 Years

The Letter card is about all forms of written communication. This can include emails, written correspondences, files, documents, and news coming in. Look to the surrounding cards to pinpoint what type of communication or information is coming. Just know that whatever it is, you'll have it on paper.

If it's in LOVE, this can involve a written correspondence of some sort with a loved one. You could also possibly be engaging in an online (or pen pal) relationship.
